Happy Birthday Libra!

September 24–October 23

The coming year looks like a very important one for everyone, especially for you Libra. It seems that you are ready now to give your life a BIG spring clean and to focus on quality, not quantity!

An energy shift at the end of October 2009 suggests that you will be starting a major new stage in your life that will help you to 'declutter'. This energy will be around for about 2 ½ years and suggests that you will enter a new stage of feeling as though you want to have a total overhaul of where your life is going: shedding outworn relationships, attitudes and ways of doing things is common when this energy is active in your life.

The first place of call for this energy is likely to mean a major change to your domestic situation, family matters and/or your private life. It seems that a situation involving these areas of your life or people is in need of change and will need attention from early November until early December 2009; again from early January until mid February 2010; and finally during the second half of August 2010. These dates are likely to bring the opportunity to make powerful changes in your life in order to make the fresh start you need.

Your children (or the possibility of having them), a love interest and/or a creative pursuit continue to be positively accented. An energy shift that occurred in January 2009 will be around until the middle of January 2010 and suggests that these areas of your life hold the potential for growth and happiness – as long as you keep your expectations realistic. This is especially true during the second half of December 2009 when you may not be viewing these relationships and aspects of your life as clearly as you normally would.

The good news is that until January 2010 indications look great for finding love if you are single, or rekindling it within your current relationship. Having children or enjoying the ones you have looks as though it will also be a prominent feature of this time.

How to Use the Planets

Here's an eye opener for you.
(It was for me, anyway!)

“Many tribes once regarded the time-keeping male Moon as being the ‘other husband’ of women, responsible for making them pregnant. In these cultures the glorious Sun was, by contrast, the life-giving, all-powerful Goddess. Native Americans, the Australian Aborigines and the Japanese all had a God of the Moon, who was the husband of the Sun Goddess in more ancient times. The Japanese Moon God was called Tsukiyomi, husband of Amaterasu, the Sun, while the Aboriginal Moon God was Bah-loo, husband of the Sun Goddess Yhi. The Persian Mah was a Moon God, as was the Inuit Igaluk.”

‘Silver Moon’ by Teresa Moorey.)

About Me...

I have been involved with astrology for more nearly 20 years and have been hooked ever since I got my first reading done.

I studied for 2 years at the Melbourne School of Astrology and ended up sitting (and passing) my exams a few years after then.

I offer birth chart interpretation, personalised forecasts, educational articles written to your requirements, book reviews, astrology columns for various media including newspaper, magazine, radio and web, public speaking and children's charts.

My newest qualification is as an accredited administrator and interpreter of the MBTI, a Jungian personality assessment tool that is the most widely used one in the world.

Candle Colours and Their Associations—Part 2

Continuing on from the last edition of Stellar News we are looking at the colours of candles and their associations.

Remember, if you want to explore candle magic there is a workshop planned for September 3—you are welcome to join us in exploring the use of candles and magic.

Colours & Associations

Blue: Sagittarius (dark blue) and Libra (royal blue), 5th Chakra. Water element, wisdom, protection, communication, calm and good fortune.

Lotus and sandalwood or musk are perfect for this candle. You can use light or pale blue for the air or sky, and a deeper blue for water. Royal blue for the ocean. Not common once again for alter magic. A colour for the wise.

Purple: Sagittarius, 6th Chakra. Third eye, psychic ability, spiritual power, a colour for people of high value.

Honeysuckle goes well with this candle. This colour was used in many religious ceremonies to do with the church and the Pope. As it was seen as a royal colour it was often scorned by the poorer people of the time. Therefore it was accepted at the witch trials—if the flame burnt high, you were possessed: if low, you were without a soul. Hard to win really?!

White: The Goddess, 7th Chakra. Use white if you run out of any other colour. Peace, purity, virginity, sense of ones self and inner innocence.

White is used most often than any other colour. You can use it as a base for candleing your wands, and a base for spells. White was also used to make dolls that could be used for good or bad - never sold, always given.

Coconut or frankincense can give the candle power for purification, peace, intuition or luck—with a touch of wisteria for mental powers. You will note that white is not connected to any of the astrological signs as it does indeed stand alone.

Saturn in Libra: Part 2

Continuing this article on from last month, the first part of this article is a re-print of the last issue of Stellar News.

Saturn, the planet associated with discipline, hard work, effort, being alone and responsibility will be shifting gear soon.

Combined with other planetary energy shifts in the coming year (and one VERY big recent one—Pluto moving into Capricorn) this is likely to be a particularly dynamic time for everyone.

This planet is moving from Virgo, into Libra on October 20, 2009 and will initially stay there for only a few months until April 8, 2010... giving us all a bit of a feel for what to expect when it returns again on July 22, 2010 at full speed! Saturn will then stay in Libra until October 6, 2012.

This article will look very briefly at how this energy shift is likely to be experienced by each of the zodiac signs. In this issue of Stellar News we'll look at Aries—Virgo and rest of the zodiac in the next issue. So, here it goes!

Libra

Saturn is visiting your sign so will perhaps be impacting you the most out of all the signs. This is likely to be a time of major changes to your life direction.

Scorpio

For you Scorpio it seems that you will be at a 'winter' stage of life. It is probably best to leave a major change or launch of anything new until Saturn enters your sign in a couple of years from now in order to succeed with your plans.

Sagittarius

Compared to the last few years the move of Saturn into Libra will be much easier for you. Your focus for putting in the hard yards seems to be on building new, long-lasting friendships and saying goodbye to outworn ones.

Capricorn

Career matters, vocation and the relationship you share with authority figures are all accentuated and are likely to involve responsibility and long-lasting changes. Some of you may have the opportunity to show your management skills at work.

Aquarius

The focus for you while Saturn travels through Libra seems to be on working on the relationship you share with a grandchild or in-law. Spirituality, legal matters, higher education and foreign people/places also feature. Work related long distance travel may also be part of the picture.

Pisces

Facing your fears looks like one of the ways this energy will play out in your life, and conquering them too! Your partner may need to work on stabilising their finances during this time. Not the best time to get into debt!

Saturn, the planet associated with discipline, hard work, effort, being alone and responsibility will be shifting gear soon.
